LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL OF THE ASEAN-INDIA EMINENT PERSONS GROUP REPORT ON THE OCCASION OF THE 20TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ASEAN-INDIA DIALOGUE RELATIONS

1 November 2012

Dear Leaders of ASEAN Member States and India,

The ASEAN-India Eminent Persons Group (AIEPG) was established to review the ASEAN-India Dialogue Relations and explore ways to widen and deepen existing cooperation towards a long-term strategic partnership between ASEAN and India.

We, the Eminent Persons of the AIEPG, are honoured with the tasks and responsibility entrusted to us. The AIEPG met on four occasions, namely on 2-3 August 2011 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, on 20-21 October 2011 in New Delhi, India, on 9-10 March 2012 in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and on 16-17 September 2012 in Kochi, India, to review the past and existing relations, and suggest various recommendations on the future areas of cooperation between ASEAN and India.

We envision the potential of ASEAN-India Dialogue Relations in the areas of political and security cooperation, sustainable economic development, socio-cultural development, and connectivity, in the midst of changing global political landscape and the growing importance of Asia in the world economy. We believe that the elevation of the existing relations to a strategic partnership presents vast opportunities for stronger cooperation in maintaining peace, security and prosperity in ASEAN and India, thus strengthening economic relations between them.

We would like to acknowledge the support of our assistants and the ASEAN Secretariat in developing this report.

We hereby submit this report for your consideration.

Please accept Your Majesty, Excellencies, the assurances of our highest consideration.

ASEAN-India Eminent Persons' Report to the Leaders

I. Introduction

1. The ASEAN Member States and India share a long and glorious history of friendly relations. They are both heirs to a cross-roads culture, situated as they are at the intersections of major land and sea routes. This enabled a dense and free flow of peoples, merchandise, cultures and ideas among them. Over the centuries, each country drew inspiration from the genius of the others and contributed to the cultural enrichment and advancement of our entire region. In contemporary times, they supported and sympathized with each other in their respective struggle for national independence and economic and social justice. This has reinforced the strong and abiding affinity they share since ancient times.
2. While peoples of ASEAN and India inhabit a shared geographical and cultural space, each country retains its distinctiveness and unique identity. It is this celebration of diversity, of plural yet related cultures, which underlies the ASEAN-India partnership. Our vision is to recreate, in a contemporary setting, the many linkages that have bound our countries together in the past and unleash a creative surge, which will impart even greater momentum to the Asian resurgence, of which we are a part.
3. At the 8th ASEAN-India Summit in Ha Noi in October 2010, the Leaders of ASEAN and India welcomed the establishment of an ASEAN-India Eminent Persons Group (AIEPG) to take stock of the 20 years of ASEAN-India cooperation and chart future direction of ASEAN-India Dialogue Relations. The AIEPG report was scheduled to be submitted to the 10th ASEAN-India Summit in Phnom Penh in November 2012.
4. The AIEPG met four times: August 2011 in Phnom Penh, October 2011 in New Delhi, March 2012 in Kuala Lumpur and September 2012 in Kochi. There were also two Intersessional Assistants Meetings of the AIEPG in January 2012 in Vientiane and May 2012 in Da Nang to facilitate the preparations of the final report.

II. Review of Past and Current Relations

5. ASEAN-India dialogue relations have grown rapidly from a sectoral dialogue partnership in 1992 to a full dialogue partnership in December 1995. The relationship was further elevated with the convening of the ASEAN-India Summit in 2002 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. Since then the ASEAN-India Summit has been held annually. This clearly signifies the importance of the dialogue partnership to ASEAN and India and the progress made in the cooperation.
6. Since India became a Dialogue Partner of ASEAN, the collaboration has transcended the realm of functional cooperation to cover political and security dimensions. India acceded to the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation in Southeast Asia (TAC) in 2003. India has also participated in a series of consultative meetings with ASEAN under the ASEAN-India Dialogue Relations, which include Summit, Ministerial meetings, Senior Officials meetings, and meetings at experts level, as well as through dialogue and cooperation frameworks initiated by ASEAN, such as the ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF), the Post Ministerial Conference (PMC) 10+1, ASEAN Economic Ministers+1 Consultations, the East Asia Summit (EAS), ASEAN Defence Ministers Meeting Plus (ADMM Plus), Mekong-Ganga Cooperation and Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multisectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC), which help contribute to enhancing regional dialogue and accelerating regional integration. After the entry into force of the ASEAN Charter, India has designated its current Ambassador to Indonesia as concurrently accredited to ASEAN to interact with the Committee of Permanent Representatives to ASEAN in the framework of the ASEAN-India Joint Cooperation Committee (AIJCC). Currently, there are 25 mechanisms coordinating the ASEAN-India cooperation in the areas of political-security cooperation, economic and socio-cultural cooperation.
7. As a reflection of the interest of ASEAN and India to intensify their engagement, the ASEAN-India Partnership for Peace, Progress and Shared Prosperity, which sets out the roadmap for long-term ASEAN-India engagement, was signed at the 3rd ASEAN-India Summit on 30 November 2004 in Vientiane. A Plan of Action (2004-2010) was also developed to implement the Partnership. Subsequently, the new ASEAN-India Plan of Action for 2010-2015 was developed and adopted by the Leaders at the 8th ASEAN-India Summit in October 2010 in Ha Noi.

8. On the economic front, volume of trade and investment flows between ASEAN and India remained relatively low compared with other Dialogue Partners of ASEAN. Trade with India accounted for 2.9% of total ASEAN trade in 2011. The ASEAN-India Trade in Goods Agreement which was signed on 13 August 2009 is expected to boost trade and investment between ASEAN and India. However, the tariff liberalisation under this Agreement covers only 80% of the total tariff lines compared with ASEAN's other FTAs which have a much higher ambition with tariff liberalisation covering at least 90%. At the drafting time of this report, the Trade in Services and Investment Agreements negotiations are still ongoing.
9. There have been significant developments in the agriculture, forestry and tourism sectors. There are also opportunities to significantly increase people-to-people relations. However, the promising potential in areas such as regional infrastructure development, ASEAN-India connectivity projects, small and medium enterprise development and energy security remains to be explored.
10. India has made a significant contribution towards the enhancing of ASEAN-India cooperation through the ASEAN-India Fund, the ASEAN-India Green Fund and the ASEAN-India Science and Technology Development Fund. India has also been actively participating in the Initiative for ASEAN Integration (IAI) Work Plan by implementing projects such as the Entrepreneurship Development Centres (EDC) and the Centres for the English Language Training (CELT) in Cambodia, Lao PDR, Myanmar and Viet Nam.

III. Guiding Principles

11. ASEAN-India's future partnership should be based on the following guiding principles:
 - ASEAN-India relations should be based on the principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations, the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation in Southeast Asia and other relevant regional instruments.
 - ASEAN and India should continue to build upon existing ASEAN-India mechanisms and in line with mutually agreed processes and structures.

- India fully supports ASEAN's efforts in building an ASEAN Community. India welcomes the vital and expanding role of ASEAN at the global level particularly after the signing of Bali Declaration on ASEAN Community in a Global Community of Nations (Bali Concord III) and looks forward to collaborate with ASEAN.
- While sharing common goals of regional peace, progress and shared prosperity, ASEAN and India should contribute to the strengthening of relations with other countries and organisations, as well as contribute to the community building in East Asia.
- India will continue to support ASEAN as the driving force of both economic and security structures and institutions that are currently emerging in this region, based on the centrality of ASEAN. ASEAN and India welcome and mutually support their increasing role at the global level. In this regard, ASEAN and India will collaborate in the solution of a number of regional and international issues of mutual concern.
- The two sides will work together to promote and strengthen inclusive and multi-track regional arrangements.

IV. Vision for the Future

12. ASEAN and India will build upon the achievements of the past and pursue enhanced cooperation within the framework of a new Vision for the Future based on a Strategic Partnership between ASEAN and India.
13. The ASEAN Member States and India welcome the growing role of Asia in the global economy and international affairs. This generates both significant opportunities for accelerated economic and social development of their countries as well as complex and difficult challenges which require their collaborative response. They are conscious of the fact that a new economic architecture is emerging in our region and new security arrangements are taking shape concurrently. It is in the common interest of ASEAN and India to work together to ensure that the evolving regional economic and security architectures will promote the goal of open regionalism and enhance the prospects for peace, stability and prosperity in Asia. As the global profile and impact of Asia over the international political and economic order increases, ASEAN Member States and India will also have to shoulder a greater responsibility for, and make their increased contribution to, the reshaping of this order. This, too, will become an important component of their expanding partnership.

14. The two sides are convinced that a strategic partnership can be sustained through establishing strong, multi-faceted and broad-ranging people-to-people relations, in particular, among the youth of our countries. A very significant increase in people and youth-centred activities is called for. These will include, inter-alia, cultural, sports, media, tourism, parliamentary and academic exchanges.
15. ASEAN and India declared that a stable and peaceful regional environment is essential for the pursuit of sustainable development in the region. To this end, ASEAN and India recognise that the centrality of ASEAN and the strengthening of ASEAN-led processes will continue to contribute to the creation of structures for dynamic cooperation for peace, security and development.

V. Recommendations

16. Over the past two decades, there has been a remarkable increase in ASEAN-India engagement and expanded cooperation across the board. As the two sides head towards the celebration of the 20th anniversary of their Dialogue Partnership in 2012, there are new and significant opportunities for forging an even closer partnership for mutual benefit. To this end, it is desirable for ASEAN and India to consider for adoption the following recommendations for 2012-2022:

A. Political and Security Cooperation

17. Declare ASEAN-India Strategic Partnership in the Vision Statement to be adopted by the Heads of State/Heads of Government at the ASEAN-India Commemorative Summit to be held in New Delhi in December 2012.
18. India to establish its separate diplomatic mission with an Ambassador accredited to ASEAN residing in Jakarta to facilitate further the enhanced dialogue partnership cooperation in all three pillars of ASEAN Community.

19. ASEAN Member States and India being maritime nations whose prosperity throughout history has been linked to sea-faring and sea borne trade, to work together to ensure maritime security and freedom of navigation to all littoral and user countries, in accordance with international law and on the basis of open, inclusive, transparent and balanced multilateral arrangements in the region. The agenda for maritime cooperation must include combating piracy, dealing with maritime emergencies, establishing a collaborative early warning system and providing prompt and effective disaster relief.
20. Promote regular and high-level security dialogue and strengthen the implementation of the ASEAN-India Joint Declaration for Cooperation to Combat International Terrorism signed in Bali, Indonesia, on 8 October 2003 in order to confront the common challenge of international terrorism and threats to their societies from extremist and exclusivist ideologies, which are hostile to the respect for diversity and our culture of tolerance. A much higher level of security cooperation and information sharing would be required to overcome these growing threats.
21. India to fully support ASEAN's strong commitment to realise a drug-free ASEAN 2015 and to pursue full cooperation with ASEAN in combating and eventually eliminating drug-trafficking. In this context, to convene regular bilateral consultations between ASEAN and India on drug related matters at the senior official level.

B. Economic Cooperation

22. Given the Asian resurgence and its relevance to the global economic recovery, it is incumbent upon our region to develop Asian perspectives on global issues. The ASEAN Member States and India will work towards shaping the new international financial and economic architecture in a proactive manner. In this context, ASEAN and India should establish a multi-sectoral Strategic Economic Dialogue:
23. While ASEAN and India have concluded a Free Trade Agreement in Goods, negotiations are still ongoing in the areas of services and investment. These negotiations should aim to conclude at the earliest, bearing in mind the fact that the conclusion of such Agreements would serve to cement our existing ties and, subsequently, take our economic relations to a higher plane:

24. The volume of ASEAN-India trade in 2010 was US$ 55.4 billion and this has grown to US$ 74.9 billion in 2011, surpassing the target of US$ 70 billion set for 2012. There are, however, prospects for reaching a much higher level of trade and investment under the proposed strategic partnership, by improved air, sea, land and digital connectivity between the two sides, expanding trade facilitation initiatives, including through collaboration in the SME sector, which is vital to the economies of ASEAN as well as India and by fostering business to business relations:
25. Declare a target of US$ 200 billion for bilateral ASEAN-India trade by the year 2022 under the ASEAN-India Free Trade Area.
26. Harness and pool our resources together to ensure that there is constant supply of talent within the ASEAN-India region, in recognition that human resources and skills have become a key factor in modern economic and social development. Encourage governments to work towards providing such talents with the opportunity to move seamlessly between ASEAN and India in order to share their expertise and knowledge to the mutual betterment of our economic prospects.
27. Enhance private sector engagement and encourage business-to-business relations, including the reactivation of the ASEAN-India Business Council. Establish an ASEAN-India Business Portal to facilitate exchange of economic and trade information and promote easy interface between companies and business persons.
28. Facilitate a mutually beneficial business visa regime, including the grant of long-term, multiple entry business visas and stay permits for professionals and their families.
29. Establish an ASEAN-India Meeting of Ministers in charge of SMEs to promote cooperation in the SME sector, with a Joint Working Group (JWG) and Senior Officials Meeting (SOM) to prepare a detailed draft plan for the consideration of the Ministers.
30. Emphasise the importance of human resources development and, in this context, propose an ASEAN-India Knowledge Initiative which would include institution-to-institution linkages between their universities and their respective centres of excellence in different fields.

31. Launch an ASEAN-India Skills Initiative and establish a virtual network of existing, upgraded and new human resource and training institutions in identified strategic sectors. An ASEAN-India Centre for Skill Development and Vocational Education could be set up in Guwahati, India, where there is already a presence of the Indian Institute of Technology. This initiative should draw upon the strengths of ASEAN Member States and India in different sectors, including in the areas where ASEAN Member States and India have a rich reservoir of time-tested traditional skills such as in textiles, metallurgy, building architecture and medicinal herbs and holistic healing practices.
32. Set up an ASEAN-India panel of experts to draw up a Food Security Plan for the region.
33. Set up an International Centre for Water Management Technologies in India to facilitate transfer of technologies by bringing together all stakeholders including governments and corporate sectors between India and ASEAN in the sector of water, likely to be on the national and international priorities for the region in the coming years. The Government of India should announce its location in due course.

C. Development Cooperation

34. ASEAN and Indian economies are in the midst of a structural transformation and confront many common challenges such as climate change, energy security, rapid urbanisation, natural disasters and food security. Cities will become the engines of growth in the coming decades and will impact on each of the cross-cutting challenges identified above. ASEAN and India will need to work together to overcome these challenges both through regional cooperation as well as through their active participation in global initiatives:
35. Enhance cooperation in bridging development gaps among ASEAN Member States, including through enhancing capacity building, strengthening human resource development and encouraging involvement of private sector and academic institutions, to contribute to the ASEAN integration and community building. In this context, ASEAN-India Eminent Persons took note of the recently held 6th Mekong-Ganga Cooperation (MGC) Ministerial Meeting.

36. Enhance cooperation between the ASEAN Centre for Energy in Jakarta with the International Centre for Energy being set up by India in Bangalore, given that India and ASEAN confront a common challenge in ensuring energy security for their peoples. Such an initiative should draw together expertise across sectors such as urban development, energy management, use of renewable energy sources, energy efficient building materials and architecture, in particular the adaptation of the rich traditional technologies that our countries possess, to meeting contemporary challenges in each of the above sectors. The International Centre could serve as a platform for sharing knowledge, experiences and best practices for urban public service delivery and governance patterns. This initiative would be announced at the ASEAN-India Commemorative Summit in December 2012.
37. Strengthen cooperation in disaster management to create disaster-resilient and safer communities, enhance cooperation in addressing global environmental issues, and strengthen cooperation in responding to climate change and addressing its impacts.
38. Set up an International Centre for Natural Disaster Management and Relief in India which would collaborate with the ASEAN Coordinating Centre for Humanitarian Assistance (AHA Centre) in providing prompt, coordinated and effective disaster relief.

D. Socio-Cultural Cooperation

39. Collaborate in promoting corporate social responsibility (CSR) to ensure that CSR is incorporated in the corporate agenda and contribute towards sustainable socio-economic development in ASEAN and India.
40. Establish a regular exchange of visits by Parliamentary delegations between the Indian Parliament and the ASEAN Inter Parliamentary Assembly.
41. Promote online interactions for the active participation of youth in India and in each of the ASEAN Member States that would generate deeper understanding and friendship.
42. Undertake greater exchange in the area of sports through strengthened collaboration between the relevant sports associations and/or commissions in ASEAN Member States and India.

43. Announce an annual ASEAN-India Essay Competition open to school/university students, on the theme of ASEAN-India relations in different fields.
44. Further intensify cooperation in media exchange including the exchange of resident correspondents of major media organisations and a Senior Editors Exchange Programme, whereby Senior Editor may spend a mutually agreed period of time as Guest Editors in major media organisations in India and in ASEAN Member States respectively.
45. Further support and leverage the establishment of ASEAN Promotional Chapter of Tourism (APCT) in Mumbai, India to further strengthen the tourism cooperation between ASEAN and India.
46. Pursue a sustainable programme of interactions in culture, which would include experts from ASEAN and India working together on the shared legacy in fields such as archaeology, linguistics, libraries, textiles, fine arts, performing arts etc. A regular film festival with the participation of popular film artists should be institutionalised. ASEAN and India should also hold exhibitions illustrative of civilisational links in arts and culture.
47. Further support the revival of Nalanda University as an icon of Asian renaissance and promote its networking with centres of excellence in the regions.
48. Consider establishing an ASEAN-India Centre in India to promote trade, investment, tourism, and cultural exchanges.
49. Encourage networking of existing ASEAN and India Study Centres in ASEAN and India, as well as think tanks and research institutes to promote studies on various aspects of economic, social and political development in ASEAN Member States and India.

E. Connectivity

50. As Asia becomes the engine for the growth of the global economy, ASEAN and India must leverage their recommended strategic partnership through enhanced connectivity to reap the benefits from this development. India is one of the two Dialogue Partners that shares both maritime and land borders with ASEAN. Given this close proximity, there is much potential for ASEAN and India to promote connectivity. To this end, India supports the implementation of the Master Plan on ASEAN Connectivity (MPAC), which encompasses physical, institutional and people-to-people connectivity. Such connectivity must be expanded to bring South Asia and Southeast Asia closer together:

51. Conclude as soon as possible the pending agreement between ASEAN and India on Open Skies.
52. Establish regular exchanges between ASEAN and the recently established Indian Inter-Ministerial Group on ASEAN Connectivity to explore ways and means to support the MPAC as well as come up with new practical initiatives to further deepen regional integration between ASEAN and India. The emphasis can be placed on promoting and upgrading regional infrastructure and inter-connectivity between ASEAN and India, combined with enabling policy framework to facilitate and promote goods in transit, multi-modal transport and inter-state transport, which would benefit both sides and a wider free trade zone.
53. While ASEAN utilises the Infrastructure Fund to finance priority projects, consider bringing in the public private partnership to support the MPAC and ASEAN Connectivity Plus. The proposed new highway project connecting India-Myanmar-Lao PDR-Viet Nam-Cambodia and the extension of the India-Myanmar-Thailand trilateral highway to Lao PDR and Cambodia as well as the development of Mekong-India Economic Corridor connecting Southeast Asia to South Asia on the eastern part of India through the Andaman Sea should receive high priority in order to add greater momentum to the growing trade and investment linkages between ASEAN and India.
54. Work together to promote the development of information and communication technology (ICT) in ASEAN Member States. In this connection, India supports ASEAN's efforts to realise the ASEAN ICT Master Plan 2015, drawing upon India's expertise in the sector and including through sharing of best practices in policy, regulations and technological development and capacity building programmes. ASEAN and India should establish an ASEAN-India broadband high speed optical fibre network to enhance virtual connectivity. This could become an ASEAN-India Broadband Corridor.

F. Regional Architecture

55. ASEAN and India reemphasised that a stable and peaceful regional environment is essential for the pursuit of sustainable development in the region. To this end, India continues to support the centrality of ASEAN in the evolving regional architecture and the strengthening of ASEAN-led processes, which has contributed to creating a dynamic environment of cooperation in various areas:
56. Deepen coordination and cooperation between ASEAN and India at the regional and multilateral levels, particularly:
- Work towards contributing to the realisation of the goals and objectives as set out in the ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF) Vision Statement;
 - Promote cooperation projects within the ARF;
 - Continue to enhance the East Asia Summit as Leaders-led forum for dialogue on broad strategic, political and economic issues of common interest and concern with the aim of promoting peace, stability and economic prosperity in East Asia;
 - Promote maritime cooperation through engagement in the future expanded ASEAN Maritime Forum to address common challenges on maritime issues, including sea piracy, search rescue at sea, maritime environment, maritime security, maritime connectivity, freedom of navigation, fisheries and other areas of cooperation; and
 - Promote cooperation in the ASEAN Defence Ministers' Meeting Plus to ensure the maintenance of peace, security, stability and enhancing prosperity in the region.

G. Institutional Support and Implementation Mechanism

57. The Eminent Persons Group is convinced that these recommendations will contribute significantly to the elevation of ASEAN-India relations to a strategic partnership. The Group recommends that a mid-term review be conducted by senior officials of ASEAN and India in 2017 on the progress in the implementation of the recommendations:

58. To ensure successful implementation of the recommendations, the institutional support and framework are necessary to closely coordinate, facilitate, monitor, review, and allocate resources effectively:
59. Recognising the important role played by other stakeholders, ensure inclusiveness of non-governmental agencies, private sector, academic institutions, think tanks, youth organisations, media groups, social and cultural foundations of ASEAN and India to support the implementation of these recommendations.
60. Streamline (i) the use of existing funds, such as the ASEAN-India Fund (AIF), the ASEAN-India Green Fund (AIGF), and the ASEAN-India Science and Technology Development Fund (AISTDF) and (ii) cooperation mechanisms under ASEAN-India relations to support the implementation of ASEAN-India cooperative activities contained in these recommendations.

VI. Conclusion

61. Taking into account the past twenty years of cooperation and achievements between ASEAN and India as well as the fast changing regional and global environment and evolving regional architectures, the AIEPG has looked at ways to elevate the comprehensive partnership between ASEAN and India to a strategic level.
62. In order to achieve and strengthen the strategic partnership, it is recommended that ASEAN and India should endeavour to implement the proposed recommendations as outlined in this AIEPG Report and continue to work together with the shared values of peace, progress and prosperity.

Progress Report of the ASEAN-India Eminent Persons Group to the 9th ASEAN-India Summit on 19 November 2011 in Bali, Indonesia

1. At the 8th ASEAN-India Summit on 30 October 2010 in Ha Noi, Viet Nam, the Leaders welcomed the establishment of an ASEAN-India Eminent Persons Group (AIEPG) to review the ASEAN-India relations and explore ways to widen and deepen existing cooperation towards a long-term strategic partnership between ASEAN and India.
2. The composition of membership of the AIEPG was completed in 2011 and the AIEPG has convened twice, namely on 2-3 August 2011 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia and on 20-21 October 2011 in New Delhi, India. The AIEPG is co-chaired by Cambodia as Country Coordinator of ASEAN-India Dialogue Relations, on behalf of ASEAN, and India.
3. The AIEPG had open and fruitful discussions on stocktaking the past and existing relations as well as on the various areas of cooperation between ASEAN and India. The Eminent Persons noted with satisfaction that the ASEAN-India relations have achieved significant progress in the past 19 years since the formalisation of ASEAN-India dialogue relations in 1992 and had stronger foundation of cooperation since convening of the first ASEAN-India Summit in 2002 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.
4. In the effort of charting the future direction of ASEAN-India Partnership, the AIEPG took into account the documents that have been adopted/signed under the ASEAN-India dialogue relations framework as well as key ASEAN documents, which included the ASEAN-India Plan of Action to Implement the ASEAN-India Partnership for Peace, Progress and Shared Prosperity (2010-2015); the Framework Agreement on Comprehensive Economic Cooperation between the Republic of India and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations; the ASEAN-India Aviation Cooperation Framework; the ASEAN-India Joint Declaration for Cooperation to Combat International Terrorism; and the Instrument of Accession to the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation in Southeast Asia by India, the ASEAN Charter, Roadmap for an ASEAN Community, the Master Plan on ASEAN Connectivity and other relevant documents.

5. The AIEPG affirmed the importance of elevating the ASEAN-India partnership to a higher plane, namely from the current level which has been based on the ASEAN-India Partnership for Peace, Progress and Shared Prosperity to a strategic partnership. In this regard, the AIEPG will explore and recommend bold, resourceful, practical ideas and doable actions to enhance the relationship, create opportunities and address challenges while taking cognisance of the dynamic regional and global environment. The areas of cooperation will cover the three pillars of the ASEAN Community building covering the political and security, economic and socio-cultural pillars.
6. In accordance with its mandate, the AIEPG will prepare the final report to be submitted to the 10th ASEAN-India Summit to be held in Cambodia in 2012. In the meantime, the Co-Chairs of the AIEPG submit this progress report, as prepared by Cambodia and the ASEAN Secretariat, to the 9th ASEAN-India Summit in Bali, Indonesia on 19 November 2011 for its information.
7. The AIEPG is currently working on the final report to be submitted to the 10th ASEAN-India Summit, which will be visionary, concise, containing the recommendations that serve the elevation of the ASEAN-India relations to strategic partnership and enhancing the role of India to support the ASEAN Community Building, the implementation of Master Plan on ASEAN Connectivity, and the attainment of ASEAN Community by 2015, avoiding redundancy with the existing Plan of Action.
8. The AIEPG has scheduled two more meetings to finalise the report which will be submitted to the Leaders of ASEAN and India at the 10th ASEAN-India Summit in Phnom Penh, Cambodia in November 2012.

Description of the ASEAN-India logo:

The ASEAN-India logo, an improvised five-spoked wind turbine, represents energy, motion, progress, connectivity and dynamism. The spokes have been stylised to symbolise the radiation of energy in an outward direction, and to reflect the spiralling motion of growth; as well as the expanding canvas of ASEAN-India partnership.

The wind turbine also represents the cleanest and most sustainable form of energy available to mankind and thereby reflects the sustainable nature of our partnership. The spokes have also been adorned in the colours of the Indian and ASEAN flags. The tagline 'Progress and Prosperity' captures the theme of the ASEAN-India Commemorative Summit, linking it directly with the aims and objectives of the Summit.
